

New USAFA Community Support and Discussion Website:

www.USAFACommunity.com is a Discussion Forums site that offers excellent discussions topics, information and support for the entire USAFA community, including parents, cadets, candidates, sponsor families, Prep school families, Local Parents Clubs and anyone seeking information or support related to USAFA. We offer discussion topics for public discussions as well as private discussion topics for Parents and Cadets who may want to discuss personal issues. There are a great deal of topics set up that encourage the posting of important news and information related to the academy. You will find many question you may have concerning the Academy answered just by doing a search within The community Forums.

We also have many outstanding features that help all the USAFA community have a one stop location for all their support and resource needs. Some features included:

Social Groups: Like Yahoo groups, where members of the community site can create groups for socializing and support on a smaller scale through threaded discussions. Examples of groups you may consider creating, or have already been created: Gap Year Group, Parents of a Cadets in a Certain Squadron, IC athlete, AFA Clubs. USAFA Prayer Groups, Local Parents Club Discussion Group. Twins Group... and any group you can think to create.
